WALL to WALL

MORDI VILLAGE

Street Art Festival

05 — 06 APRIL, 2025

Celebrating 10 years of @walltowallfestival

The City of Kingston Acknowledges the Bunurong Peoples' of the Kulin Nation as Traditional Owners and Custodians, and pays respects to their Elders past and present and emerging. The Bunurong People occupied lived in areas of south eastern Victoria for tens of thousands of years, their traditional lands stretched from what is now known as the Werribee River, Westernport Bay, Phillip Island, Wilson's Promontory and Port Phillip Bay. Before European settlement, the Mayone-bulluk clan lived around the Carrum Carrum Swamp, while the Ngaruk-Willam clan were based around Mordialloc.

SHAUN HOSSACK

FESTIVAL DIRECTOR

FOUNDER, JUDDY ROLLER

Welcome to the 10th anniversary of Wall to Wall Festival, where art meets community, and the streets become our canvas. Over the past decade, Wall to Wall has redefined public spaces across Australia, bringing together world-class artists, vibrant communities, and a shared passion for creativity.

This year, we're excited to bring the festival back to Mordi Village, adding another chapter to our journey. From large-scale murals to interactive art experiences, Wall to Wall continues to celebrate the power of street art to inspire, connect, and transform.

Thank you for being part of this milestone event. Here's to 10 years of color, culture, and creativity—let's make this the most unforgettable Wall to Wall yet!

WELCOME

CR GEORGINA OXLEY MAYOR

We are pumped to be again partnering with the legends at Juddy Roller to bring Wall to Wall back to Mordi Village. After a hugely successful introduction to Kingston last year, we are set for another exciting explosion of creativity and culture this weekend. While centred on the incredible art and artists, Wall to Wall is a treat for all the senses, with live music, gourmet food, artists talks, walking tours and family friendly activities rounding out the entertainment and the local businesses and makers showcasing their wares. We are also thrilled to welcome Little Birdie Market to the event in 2025.

Transformational, inspiring and uplifting, street art adds complexity and character to the places where we work, learn and relax and greatly adds to a community's sense of place and identity. We are super proud of our growing, vibrant arts and cultural scene in Kingston and Wall to Wall Festival 2025 promises to be another fantastic event. Once complete, this year's large-scale murals will expand the existing self-guided art trail and further encourage visitation to our city. Whether you are a Kingston local, or have travelled to be here, welcome and have an awesome weekend.

ADNATE

@adnate

Adnate is a leading large-scale portrait artist, influenced by Renaissance painters like Caravaggio. His works capture deep emotion through intense gazes and vibrant colour. Passionate about Indigenous cultures, especially in Australia, his murals make powerful statements about reclaiming land. Through his art, he aims to evoke emotional connections and invite viewers to experience the stories of his subjects.

BIDJU

@bidju_designs

Nicky Bidju Pryor is a talented artist from Townsville, Australia, with Indigenous heritage from the Juru, Ngaro, Gia, and Gunggandji peoples. His art reflects a deep connection to his roots, blending traditional Indigenous styles with contemporary techniques.

CLAUDIO MANTUANO

@claudio.mantuano

Known for his diverse range of works in oil and acrylic painting, murals, and sculpture, Claudio's art explores the beauty of both natural and manmade environments, while engaging deeply with the materials and processes that shape his visual language. Claudio has completed major mural projects for clients such as Puma and Starbucks.

DREZ

@drez

Known for his bold use of colour and form, Drez creates work that fosters connection and inclusivity, avoiding specific narratives to make art accessible to all. He explores the transformative power of colour, light, and movement, using optical effects and hand-mixed gradients to create dynamic, immersive experiences. Drez's free-hand geometric approach ensures each piece retains the human touch while seamlessly transforming public spaces, encouraging viewers to engage with their environment in new, reflective ways.

ELLEN PORTEUS

@ellenporteus

Ellen's unmistakable artworks are an expression of her world: combining eye vibrating colour, cartoonish maximalist compositions and play-on-words. She is deeply inspired by the complexities and contradictions of our inner worlds, and nature at large. You can usually find Ellen with one foot in reality and the rest of her body in her imagination.

JASON PARKER

@jasonparkerart

Jason Parker is a New Zealand-born fine artist and muralist based in Melbourne, Australia. His work is designed to be ambiguously evocative and emotive, rendering the spirit, states of consciousness, and capturing dreamlike moments. Jason often paints visual metaphor-type portraits, figures, and scenarios capturing the moments and feelings that language fails to express.

KYLE BRIGHTSIDE

@brightsidekyle

Kyle grew up skateboarding, surfing and BMX biking, exposed to the crazy, colourful & unapologetic world of skateboard graphics and street art from an early age. Known for using his unique style of bright, bold art combined with Australian culture to create dynamic, unique & visually appealing artworks, Kyle specialises in large scale murals & exciting workshops to engage with young people to encourage their creativity and self expression.

LAUREN YS

@squid.licker

Lauren's diverse background in academia, literature, illustration, and animation informs her vibrant, fantastical murals and fine art. Drawing on themes like mythology, psychedelia, love, and her Asian-American heritage, her work often features powerful female characters navigating surreal, dreamlike worlds.

MINNA LEUNIG

@minnaleunig

Inspired by Australia's diverse landscapes, Minna uses limited pigments to create earthy, primal and playful images. With an intuitive and lyrical artistic approach, she celebrates native plants and animals, portraying them as unique, spirited individuals. Her recurring motifs honour the strength, joy, and beauty of the natural world, reflecting a deep connection to country and its creatures.

SOFLES

@sofles

Internationally acclaimed street artist Sofles been a pioneer in graffiti for over 20 years, known for his distinct style that blends mind-bending abstraction with intricate colour work. Sofles has been described as a special effects wizard, mastering a multitude of styles throughout his career. His bold use of colour renders works so unique, they've earned him cult status as one of the most-watched contemporary street artists both at home and across the globe.
